

Hello,

According to the dating site system that processed our data, we should be the perfect match. I hope you don't mind me writing to you then. I have been missing someone close to me for a while now.

Hoping to hear from you soon

Code-name Juliet (the young man at the dating agency said it would be more fun this way)

Dear Juliet,

I have registered myself with the aid of my granddaughter only a short while ago, and your message has made my day. It has been a couple of years since I lost someone too, but I don't feel like myself being alone. I have no one to talk to about it and I feel my heart is withering away without a friendly soul to keep it company.

Romeo (since you started with the Juliet)

Oh how kind you are, Romeo!

It has been a long time since I met a gentleman who is not afraid to show his feelings! I think us writing to each other like this could be the work of destiny! I have been registered by my grandchildren as well! So you have children? Are they as gallant as you are? Oh how I missed talking to someone as magnificent as you!

J.

I have to admit I feel the same way. Yes, I have a son, but he didn't take much after me. But do tell me something more about you! Every time I finish a message for you, I count the seconds before you answer!

R.

Hey!

I saw your dating ad and was hooked right away! Your hobbies are really interesting and I have been searching for someone like you for a long time now.

They said I should choose a nickname at the dating agency, which is funny – I feel like a superhero in disguise!

Hope you write me

- Clark Kent

Hi Clark,

Your message got me all excited; I wasn't even hoping anyone would answer my ad! 😊 What is it exactly that we have in common? Yeah, they told me about the nickname thing as well, it's very funny! 😊 Looking forward to hearing more from you!

Lois Lane 😊

Woow so you know Superman, that is awesome! We share almost all your interests; I love theater, literature and good food and wine as well. I just have no one to share it with... 😞

Will you save me, Lois?

Weeeell...

I suppose I could, right? But first, I'd like to know more about you – saving a person is a serious business 😊 Are you a cat person or a dog person? I'm a cat person. And what's your favorite color, Superman? 😊

Hey, I'm not much of a playing-the-game guy. I'm honest. I like you and I'd like to meet you. Do you feel the same way?

Clark.

Yes! 😊 I was worried you'd never ask! When and where?

L.

Excellent! See you day after tomorrow. Do you know that beautiful duck pond in the park?

Clark.

I do, can't wait!

Lois xxx 😊